"May the strength of God pilot us . . . May the wisdom of God instruct us . . . May the way of God direct us . . . May Christ be with us. May thy salvation, O Lord, be always ours this day and forever more."

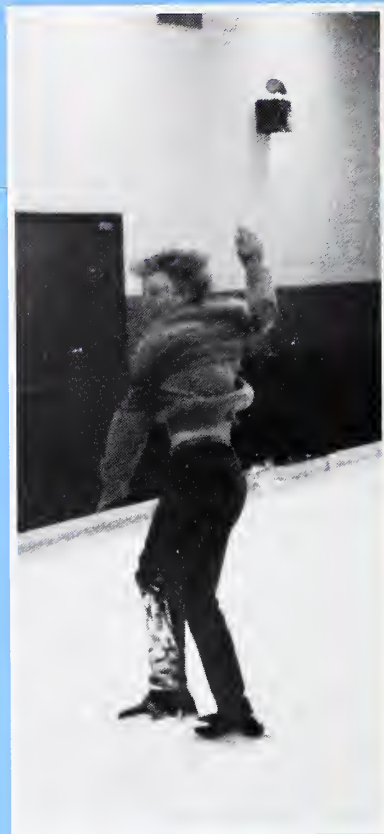

St. Patrick
"Breastplate"

It's a field, however fertile, cannot be fruitful without cultivation, neither can a mind without learning.

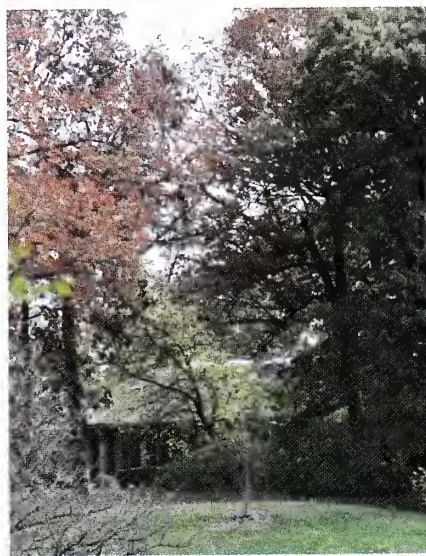

Cicero

Friends, are friends forever, if the Lord's the Lord of them; And a friend will not say never 'cause the welcome never ends. Though it's hard to let you go, in the Father's hand we know, that a life-time's not to long to live as friends.

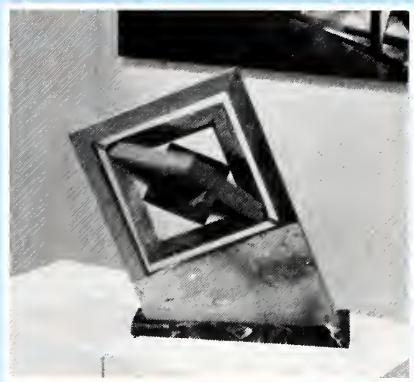

Michael W. Smith

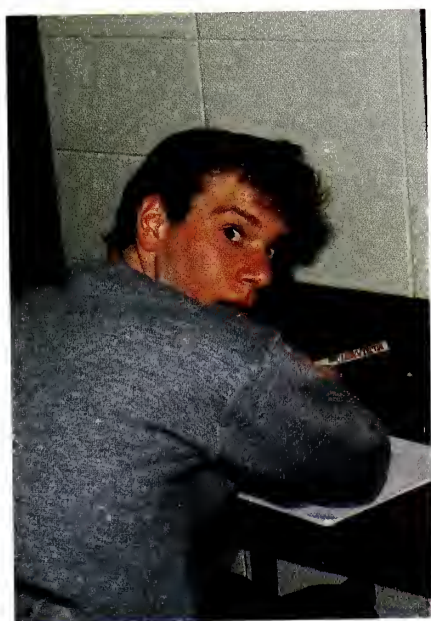

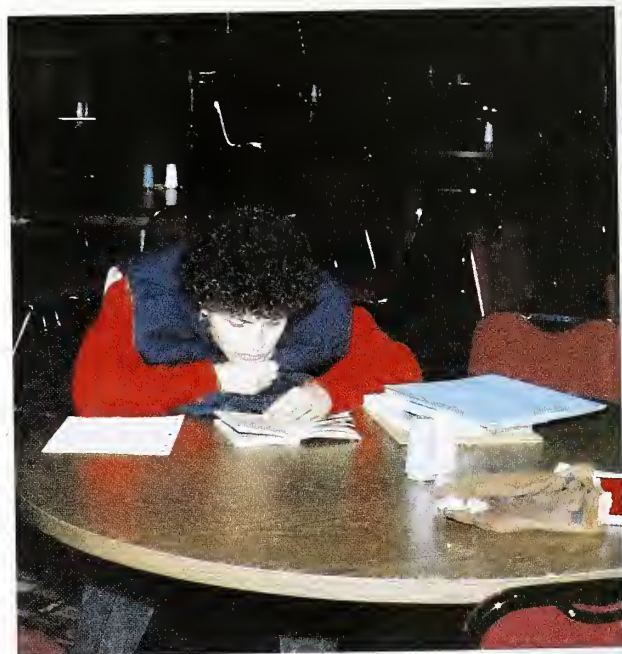

"Then give us courage, Father God, to choose again the pilgrim way, And help us to accept with joy, the challenge of tomorrow's day."
Fred Kaan

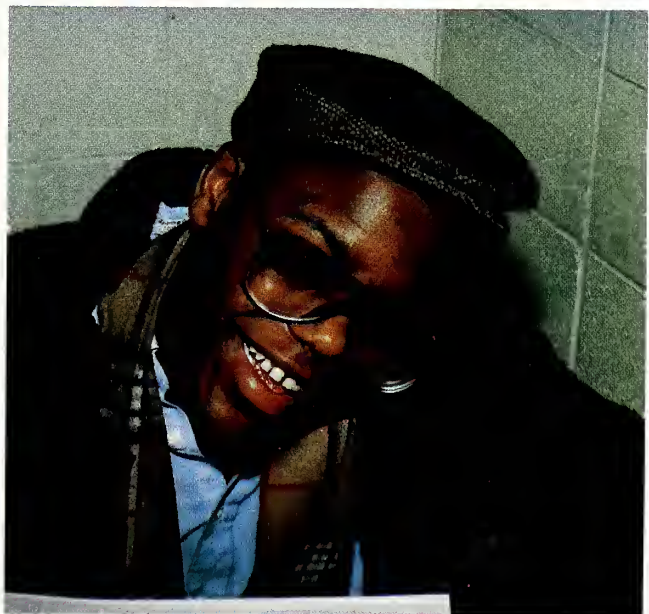

Yesterday is but a dream . . . And tomorrow is only a vision . . . But today well-lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness. And every tomorrow a vision of hope.

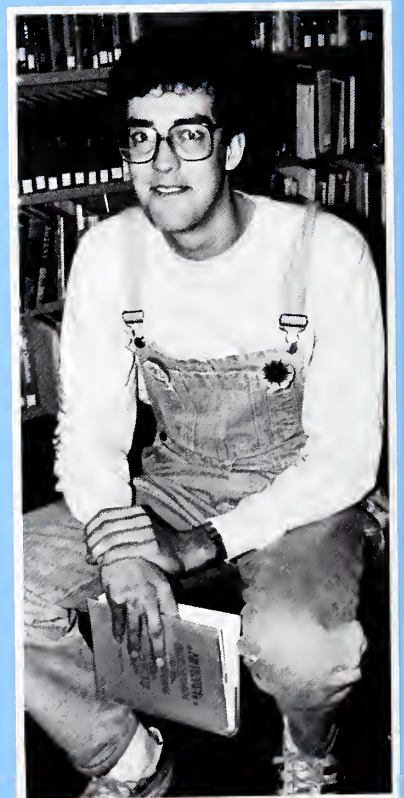

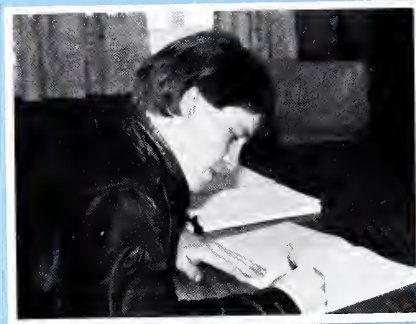

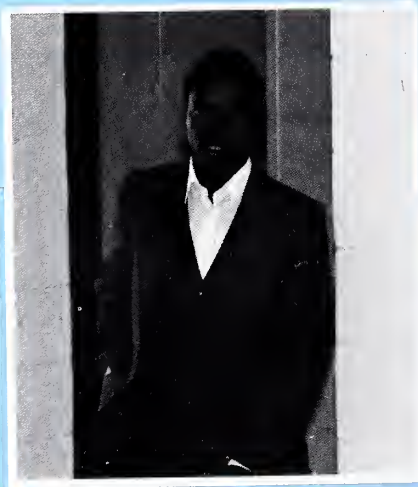

"This is the secret of joy. We shall no longer strive for our own way; but commit ourselves, easily and simply, to God's way acquiesce in His will and in so doing find our peace."

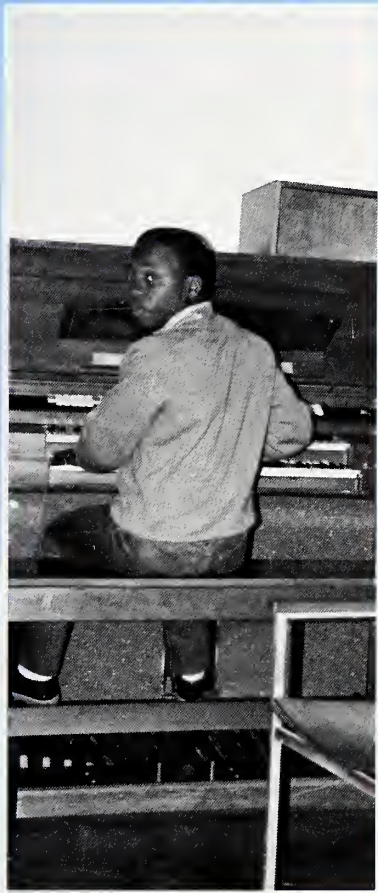

Evelyn Underhill

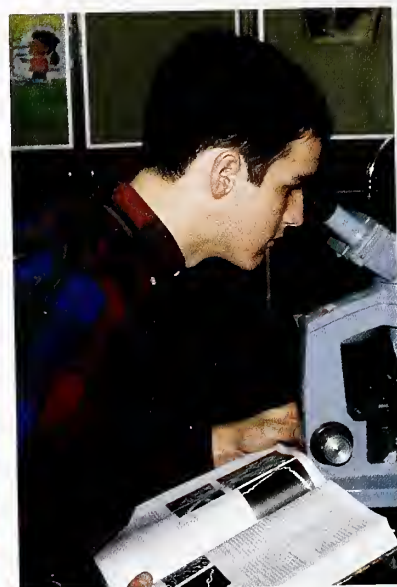

What an enormous magnifier is tradition! How a thing grows in the human memory and in the human imagination, when love, worship, and all that lies in the human heart, is there to encourage it.

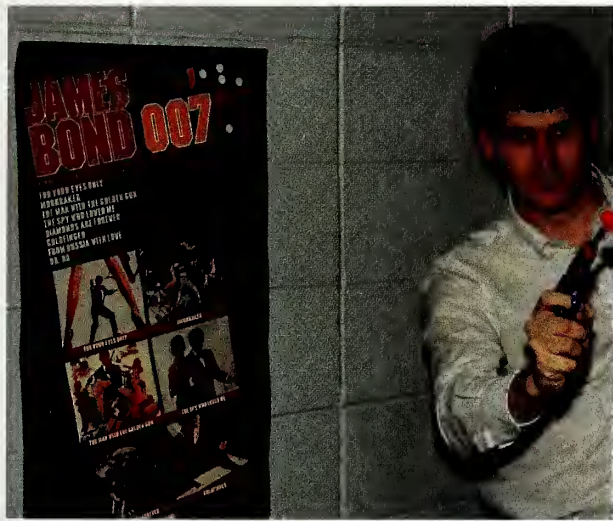

Carlyle

Today is not yesterday. We ourselves change. How then, can our works and thoughts, if they are always to be the fittest, continue always the same. Change, indeed, is painful, yet ever needful; and if memory has its force and wrath, so also has hope.

Carlyle

If we work upon marble, it will perish; if on brass, time will ef-face it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds, and imbue them with principles with the just fear of God and love of our fellowmen, we engrave on those tablets something that will brighten to all eternity.

Daniel Webster

STUDENT LIFE

ORIENTATION

1985

"Changing Lives" was the theme for Orientation activities. A large and active student committee planned several days worth of events designed to ease the transition to Trinity by acquainting new and transfer students, and families, with the mission, people, systems and setting of Trinity Christian College. Highlights included small group discussions, mixers, academic advising and trips to Great America and downtown Chicago. The academic community was called to work at the annual Convocation.

BELOW: Zan and Liz excite the audience with a duet at the Talent Show

HALLOWEEN 1985

The last week of October saw the second annual Oktoberfest week in the dining hall. This included the Oktoberfest Buffet, a steak night, the contest night, and costume night on Halloween. It was, again, a successful series of special events; mixing good food, with fun and a little bit of excitement. (Reminder to myself: NEVER have the apple cider chug-a-lug again!)

UPPER RIGHT: The mummy wrap on Halloween.

Trinity Visits Pipes and Pizza . . .

In the past two years, Trinity has made it a tradition to visit Pipes and Pizza in Lansing for a night of singing, laughing, drinking, and, of course, eating. This year, the date of the visit came just before Christmas, adding a special touch to the singing. Of special note, were several songs sung in Spanish and one which required various groups to stand up and make as much noise as possible. The special attraction of the restaurant is, of course, the magnificent pipe organ — which Dr. Bootsma mastered skillfully.

RIGHT CENTER: Reginald Harris eyes others' pizza cunningly.
ACROSS: Tom Krygsheld, Scott Stan, and Bob Lemon enjoy glasses of pop after stuffing themselves with pizza.

Dancing at Trinity

Dancing at Trinity has taken on special importance as one of the most enjoyed activities sponsored by the college. Four times this school year Trinity has hired either a band or a disc jockey and temporarily transformed the dining hall into a dance hall. The Halloween dance provided an interesting spectacle as many were dressed in costumes or togas. Despite strict censorship of the music which, at one dance, somehow stopped all familiar music from being played, most enjoyed the evenings and hope for a continuation of the event.

BELOW: Phil Leo, screaming, leads the group through the dance.

LEFT: Eric Schoonveld towers above the rest as the Jolly Green Giant.
 BOTTOM: "Tiny" does the twist.

Madrigals

A long standing tradition at Trinity has been the performance just before Christmas of Madrigals. Madrigals, in a sentence, is a dinner theater set in the context of Medieval England, where Lords, Kings, Queens and court jesters sing and entertain the audience between courses of prime rib and various other English foods.

Lord Chamberlain (this year played by Peter Mantel) served as master of ceremonies, introducing the audience in the chapel and then leading them to the dining room for dinner. There the group of 12 singers, the Lords and Ladies, entered with a fanfare by the brass ensemble, and took their places at the front of the dining hall. Three courses of food were then served intermittently between songs by the singers, the brass ensemble, and jokes and juggling by the court jester.

Basketball Pep Rally

One of the most exciting impromptu events to occur this year was a Pep Rally for the Women's Basketball team. The team was just about to go to the NCCAA tournament after winning in their district and Trinity decided to show their support.

Dave Larsen introduced the team and the coach while the band played "25 or 6-4" and the cheerleaders (both male and female), all dressed in skirts, led the crowd in "Troll" cheers.

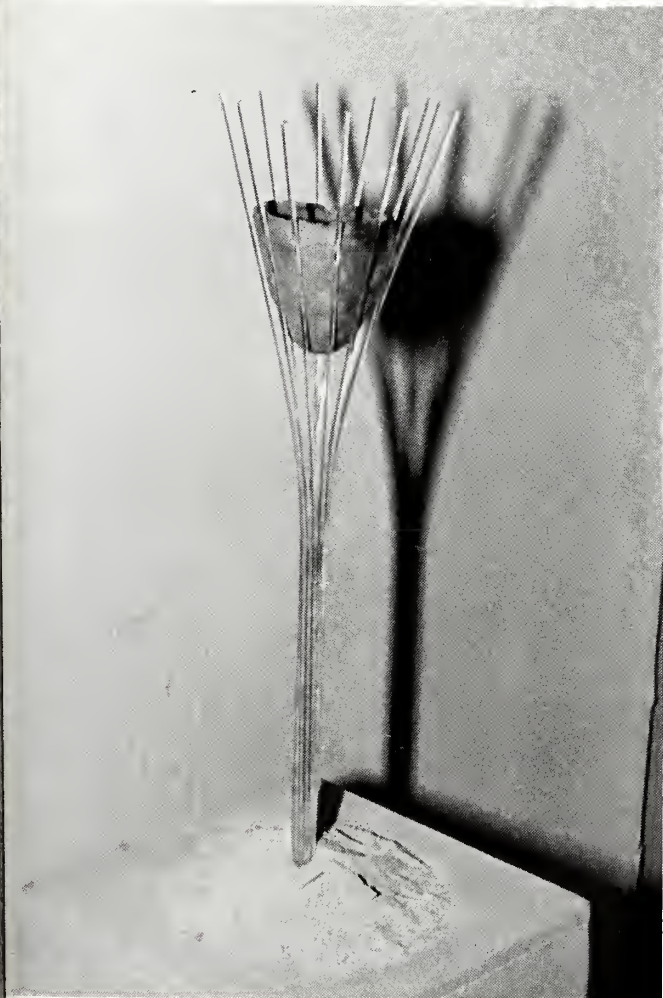

Trinity And Art

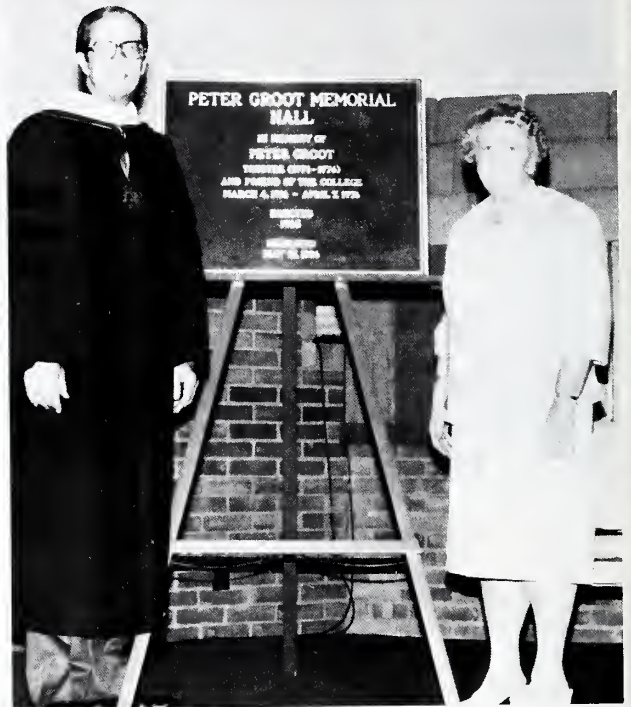

Edmund Feldman, a contemporary artist, once said that media imagery has become such a dominant force in our society today that one can no longer be called literate if he cannot read images selectively. Teaching students an awareness of this power of imagery and different methods of dealing with it, has become the goal of the art program at Trinity.

This year has been especially exciting for Trinity's art professor John Bakker because of the addition of an art gallery across from the chapel. Featuring several rising local artists throughout the year, the gallery has come to be known throughout the Chicagoland as an out-of-the-way place to see good art, even being written up in a Chicago art magazine. Displayed here are pictures from "Opus '86," a student art show with categories of painting, drawing, wild-life illustrations, 3-dimensional, and design.

NURSES CONVOCAATION

"... the Father of mercies and God of all comfort; who comforts us in all our affliction so that we may be able to comfort
those who are in any affliction with the comfort with which we ourselves are comforted by God."

I Corinthians 1: 3, 4

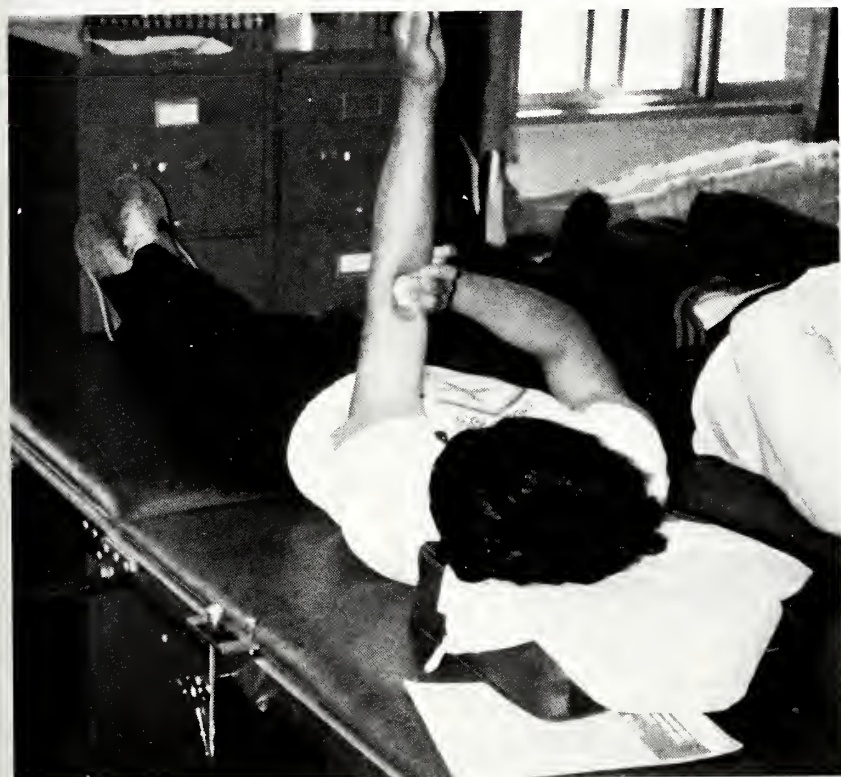

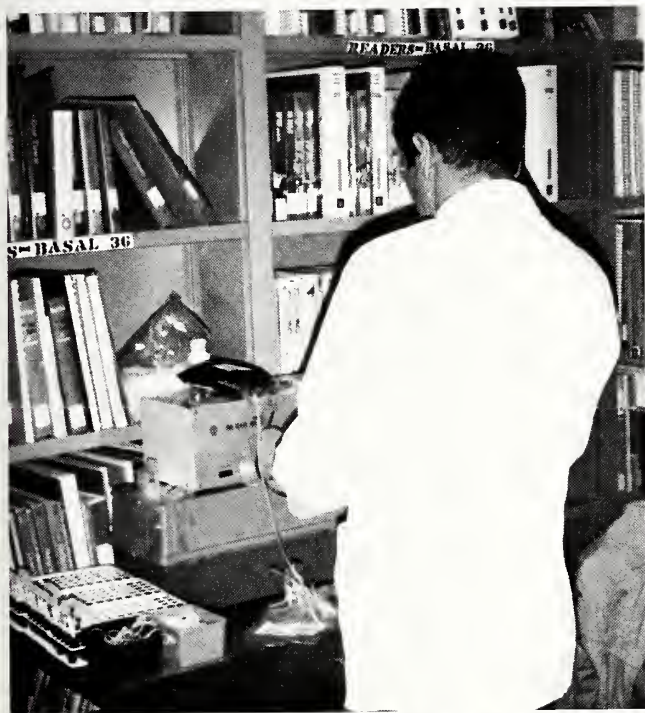

Clinicals . . .

As part of nurses training at Trinity, nurses spend a lot of time in clinicals, or work at a hospital to gain experience. One somewhat different clinical this year was a visit of several nurses to a nearby hospital. The purpose of the visit was to help small children become familiar with hospital procedures like X-rays, Cat-Scans, or emergency procedures, so they would not be frightened should they ever have to enter a hospital for any reason. With the help of the puppet show and a friendly dog, Trinity's nurses helped to ease the fear of the children and instruct them in health procedures.

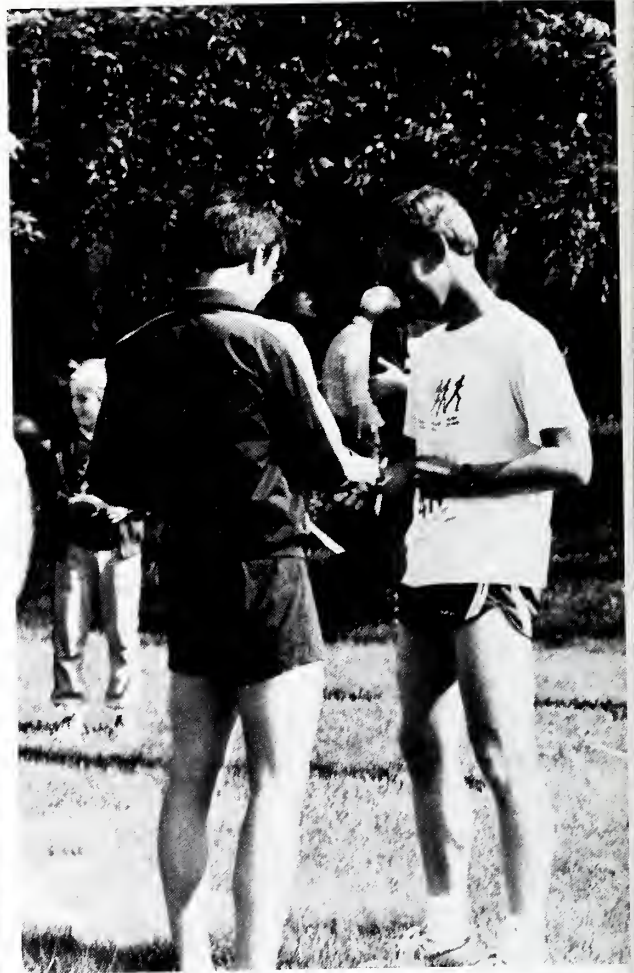

TOP: Judy Geerdes helps a young boy listen to his heart beat.

Blood Drive

Every year Trinity helps out Red Cross by staging a blood drive on the campus. The curriculum center is temporarily transformed into a hospital, and pint after pint of precious blood is donated freely. Students are rewarded, however, with juice and cookies to help them recuperate, and with the knowledge that they have really been of service to others in need.

ATHLETICS

Volleyball

For the women's volleyball team, the 1985 season was a year of transition as the young squad adjusted to new players and new head coach John Evenhouse. The Lady Trolls put together a winning streak in early October that included North Central, Judson, George Williams, Olivet Nazarene, Moody Bible, and Judson again. The squad peaked in the NCCAA district tourney where they finished second in the eight team tourney. Their strong performance included an upset of the top-ranked Northwestern College team from Minnesota. They finished with a 14-21 match record on the season. Senior Jan Terpstra and freshman Susan Bruinius were selected to the NCCAA All-District team for their fine performance.

Soccer

The men's soccer team finished the 1985 season with a 5-9-2 record under the direction of coach Dave Ribbens. The Trolls were a team filled with youth, only one senior of the squad. The highlight of the season was a pair of late season wins over Christian college rivals with very good records. They posted a 3-2 road victory over Moody Bible Institute and followed it with a 2-0 home win over Maranatha Baptist Bible College. Senior Afework Zellelew was named to the NCCAA All-District team this season, and Freshman Scott Stan was named to the NCCAA All-American team.

Women's Basketball

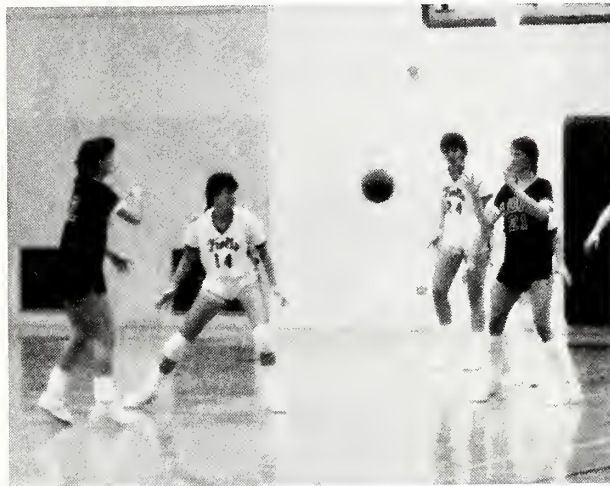

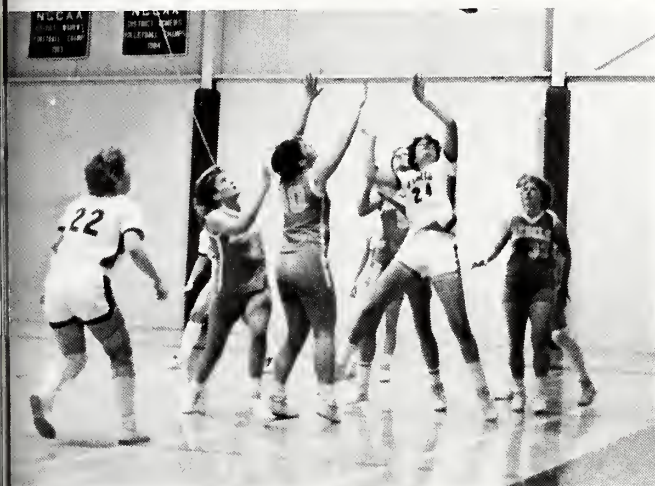

The 1985-86 women's basketball season was a very successful one, as Coach Dave Ribbens' team finished with an 18-11 record. With four juniors in the starting lineup, the lady Trolls picked up the momentum shortly after the semester break winning 10 straight games and 13 of 14 games. The early highlights of the streak were a one point win over a NCCAA nationally-ranked Elmhurst College team and an overtime victory at Dordt College. The last season highlights were a pair of victories in the NCCAA district tourney over Judson College and Grand Rapids Baptist College to win the district title. The Lady Trolls competed at the NCCAA national tourney for the third time in four years. In addition to winning the district title, the Trolls defended their Midwest Cup tourney championship. Trinity's Barb Schaaf and Jill Groenewold were unanimous choices to the NCCAA All-District team and Dave Ribbens was selected District Coach of the Year. Schaaf was also chosen to the NCCAA All-Tourney team and NCCAA All-American team.

Men's Basketball

The 1985-86 men's basketball season was a learning experience as only two players had played collegiate basketball before. Under first year head coach John Evenhouse, the team endured some games against strong competition and developed as a squad. By February, the Trolls were quite competitive including victories over Milwaukee Engineering and Northwestern College of Wisconsin. The Trolls finished with a 3-22 record. Sophomore guard Tony Bates was named to the NCCAA All-District team.

Softball

Dave Ribbens, the head coach of women's softball, has called this the most successful softball season he has had. The backbone of the success has been what Dave has called "one of the finest teams Trinity ever had." The "talent is unmatched" and the "experience of the team is tremendous." And so it seems, the team has rarely lost, and two of the key players, Dar Fransman and Barb Schaf have proved their experience both in pitching and hitting.

Baseball

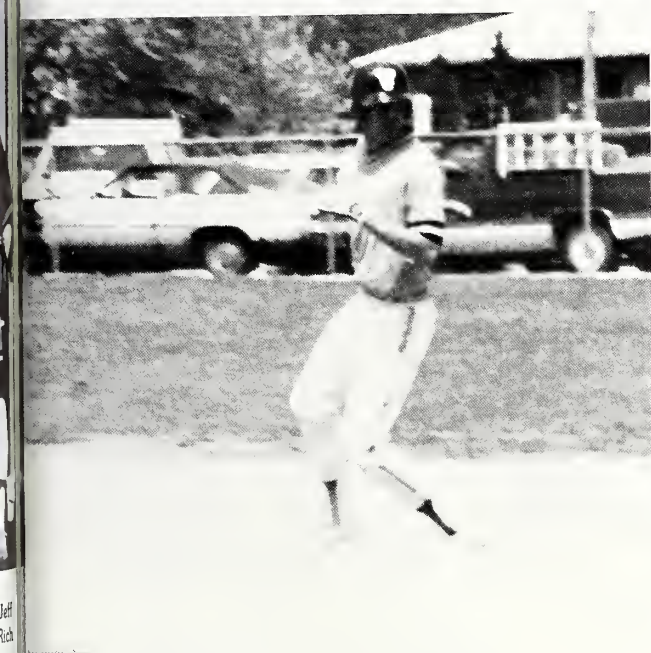

For the first time this year, Trinity baseball, previously only a club, has received "team" status. With the extra money allotted for a sport, Trinity has been able to hire Jim Feigl as coach to build and organize the new team. Coach Feigl has said that because baseball is new at Trinity there is a lack of experienced players, but with time he hopes the quality of the team will improve.

BELOW: Mark Gamble scores another run for the Trolls.

Despite the disappointing record this year, there have been some outstanding performances by Freddy and Edwin Carabello, who both batted over .300, Jack LeGrand, who has displayed leadership qualities, and Scott DeYoung, who has been voted the most valuable player. With the rough beginning year behind him, Coach Feigl promises they will be better next year.

Under the supervision of a new coach, Becky Terpstra, and with a squad full of new talent, the 1985-86 season was a successful one for the Troll Cheerleaders. They showed a great deal of dedication and spirit through the entire season by continuing to add fresh ideas to their cheers. The squad ended the season with a fantastic floor routine choreographed to a musical arrangement of "Axel F." The cheerleaders' enthusiasm was appreciated by the fans and the team.

Highlights of Intramural

Intramurals give students the chance to be involved in an organized sport, and meet new people, without the pressure of intercollegiate competition. Many, if not most of the students, join at some time or another, an intramural team for some good laughs and a break from their studies. Intramurals include the following sports: Co-ed Softball, Co-ed Brun Ball, Men's Hoc Soc, Women's Volleyball, Co-ed Volleyball, Women's Hoc Soc, and Men's Basketball.

Brun Ball Champs "The Bruisers"

Probably the most interesting and unique intramural sport at Trinity is Co-ed Brun Ball, which is a curious mixture of kicking, running, and passing a ball between your legs. One team stands in the field and pitches the ball (a rubber ball about the size of a basketball) to an opposing player. That player tries to kick the ball in a strategic place that will allow him to run around cones. Meanwhile, the team in the field has to stop the ball, line up in leap-frog position, and pass the ball through their legs. The team who runs around the cones the most wins.

Association

"And you wondered why" more exciting meetings' was among the campaign promises?"

The governing body of Student Association at Trinity is the Student Association Council. The Council is composed of representatives of the development committees, commuter and resident representatives, the executive officers, and the Dean of Students. The 1985-1986 officers were President Larry Verhage, vice-president Karen Biarnesen, Secretary Alison Zeilenga, and Treasurer Cheryl Bulthuis. This representative body gives support to student proposals and planned activities both verbally and financially. On February 11, 1986, the Student Association passed a small change in student government: Freshmen are now permitted to be voting representatives in the Council.

Four development committees stand under the Student Association: Academic Affairs, Student Activities, Student Ministries, and Student Publications. The Academic Affairs Committee works toward improvements in grading policies, course offerings, and other academic issues. Student Activities plans social events such as dances and outings to Chicago. Student Ministries provides opportunities for both fellowship and witness through Trinity's many ministry-oriented groups: Bread-for-the-World, PACE, Pro-life, Missions Committee, and weekly prayer meetings. Student Publications oversees the production of the Allelu yearbook and the weekly newspaper, The Courier.

Orientation Committee

The 1985 Orientation Committee gave freshmen and transfer students the labor day weekend to get acquainted with each other, with the school, and with the Chicago area. The newcomers who participated in the "mixers" will possibly never forget the distasteful chocolate-pudding-spitting contest. Three days filled with outings and meetings gave them an introduction and to place rest on the college student's agenda. Outings served as an introduction to popular sights around the city: Brookfield Zoo, The Museum of Science and Industry, the beach, Great America, and the downtown area. The orientation meetings stressed the importance of good study habits and involvement in activities and clubs on campus. The committee had a vision for what God could do in the lives of these new students during their time at Trinity, therefore they chose "Changing Lives" as their orientation theme.

Resident Staff

The Resident Staff at Trinity includes Resident Directors (R.D.'s) and Resident Assistants (R.A.'s). The R.A.'s are students who take responsibility in coordinating floor activities and Bible studies. They distribute light bulbs, cleaning supplies, and other dorm essentials. They also try to promote communication among students and between students and staff. They are responsible for enforcing campus rules and administering fines for infractions. The R.D.'s are a married couple who lives in the dorm. They are always there to lend a listening ear or a set of tools, and they work closely with the R.A.'s. Coordinating all the R.A.'s and R.D.'s is Dave Larsen.

Courier

The Courier, Trinity's official student newspaper, came out weekly this year with a new and different format. Although the staff was small, they worked hard to keep the campus up-to-date on sports events, on-campus activities and concerts, developments in the plans for a new residence hall, and various other incidents and issues. The Courier gave a lot of room for students and faculty to voice their opinions, particularly on the cafeteria-food controversy. It also provided some week-end humor in "Potshots" — pictures of familiar people in unfamiliar poses — and fictional articles such as the one in Mr. Eckardt's conversion to exemplarism.

Allelu

With some returning staff and a lot of beginners, the Allelu staff worked hard and the yearbook pages came rolling in. This year's staff, in particular, has tried to picture Trinity as a growing school, in terms of enrollment, curriculum, spiritual and academic student groups, and soon to be in terms of actual new buildings. This is a memorable time for the whole community of Trinity supporters. Hopefully this has been a memorable year of growth in the life of each Trinity student also — a year worth capturing on the pages of a yearbook.

Singing Groups

Concert Choir

Trinity's Concert Choir was under the direction of Daniel Sytsma for his second year. The choir performed in several community events — the J. S. Bach program and the annual Psalm sing — as well as participating in chapels (both at Trinity and at area high schools) and putting on a concert each semester. The group sang very well and enjoyed expressing their faith musically.

Men's Quartet

Formed by four of Trinity's fine vocalists, this men's quartet has been singing together for several years. The group is in constant demand because of their fine harmony and spiritual message. Besides their numerous community engagements, they have led chapels and were featured during the Gospel Choir Concert.

Gospel Choir

The Gospel Choir started last year by Zan Ingalls, Deb Posey, and Ocie Booker was back again in good numbers. In spite of limited practice time, the choir learned a lot of music and performed it enthusiastically. They ministered to a great variety of audiences: a youth group in Humbel Park, educators at Illinois State Beach Resort, the congregation of Beacon Light CRC, and many of the choir members home churches. The choir itself is composed of people from a variety of backgrounds, but they find a unity in their love of the Lord and their love of gospel music. In their music, the Gospel Choir expresses an attitude of intense praise and fervent prayer.

Student Ministry Clubs

Pro-life

The Pro-life Committee is a group interested in promoting the sanctity of life by providing information on life-and-death issues and by supporting pro-life legislation. In the past, students from the group have picketed and counseled at abortion clinics. This year their activities included sponsoring a blood drive and participating in the Annual March-for-Life in Washington D.C.

The Bread-for-the-World Club seeks to promote campus awareness of hunger problems and to provide hunger relief by sponsoring third world children and by supporting legislation which is beneficial to the hungry of the world. This year the group did a lot of fundraising to support their sponsored children and to help several students go overseas for health-and-hunger relief work during the summer. Four students are volunteering two weeks with the Christian Medical Society in Honduras and two are volunteering the entire summer with Youth with a Mission in the Phillipines.

Weekly noon prayer meeting.

Missions Club, a new group this year, did a fine job of awakening mission awareness on campus. This club also provided the opportunity for fellowship among students interested in missions as a career. The students involved gave a weekly reminder to pray for mission work by reading the "Missionary Minutes" in chapel. Students from this group also gave spiritual leadership by starting a weekly prayer meeting.

PACE

Trinity's PACE program has a long history of providing students with the valuable experience of tutoring prisoners at the County Jail. While giving the prisoners the opportunity to increase their level of education, this program gives the students an opportunity to share their knowledge with some who are very eager to learn and to show Christ's love to some who are desperately seeking that love. Tutoring at the jail involves a commitment of one full evening a week, but it is time well spent.

Business

Trinity's Business Club is a relatively new club. This year the club brought in several outside speakers to discuss subjects such as investments and job resumes. Several Senior students also spoke about their internships, preparing the group for what might be ahead. This club provides an opportunity for out-of-class interaction with different aspects of the business world.

Student Nurses' Association

The Student Nurses' Association is a new club which hopes to create greater campus awareness on health-care issues. The club also serves as a support group for students in the nursing program. One of their activities this year was a panel discussion with former nursing students. This program was very beneficial in giving Trinity's nursing students an idea of the different paths they may take after college.

History

Trinity's History Club is a group which enjoys thinking about and discussing current issues. They want to look at history from a Christian perspective and urge others on campus to think historically. This year they brought several speakers to campus including James Skillen from the Association for Public Justice who spoke on apartheid in South Africa. The group also attended off-campus lectures and watched videotapes of prominent people speaking on current events.

Science

Trinity's Science Club has been an active club for many years. Besides working regularly at the Palos Heights recycling center, the club regularly sponsors campus aluminum can and paper drives. In these activities, students find an opportunity to exercise good stewardship and also raise funds to support other club activities. Other activities this year included science films and outings to museums and lectures in the Chicago area.

Sandy Schaap, Pam Fiebig, Cheryl Janek, Christine Tolsma.

Future Teachers

The Future Teachers Club helps education students prepare for a teaching career. The group particularly provides support to those who are student teaching by providing them with literature, materials, and ideas to work with. One of their activities was a field trip to a teacher store house — a place where many helpful teaching materials are available.

Black Student Clubs

Black Student Union

The Black Student Union was formed in the Fall of 1985 as a support group for black students. Throughout the school year, this group gave black students the opportunity to meet together and share their common heritage and their feelings as Trinity students. The group also sponsored a picnic and dance and attended the National Black Christian Conference. The Union would like to educate the Trinity community about their rich black heritage and also would like to be a vehicle to channel black students' grievances to the administration.

Black History Week

Each year, Trinity sets aside one week in February as a Celebration of black culture and history. This year, Black History Week was celebrated by special chapels, evening speakers and films, and biographical notes of historically prominent black people in the Times. Speakers included a State Senator as well as several favorite local pastors. It was a really educational week, beneficial to all.

Metro

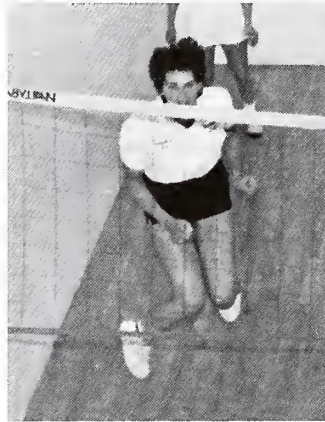

Second semester students at Chicago Metropolitan Center. Students from Trinity this year were Phil Fou, Pete Hillmer, Dan Post, Kristy Tamminga, Steve Van Drunen, and Steve Wisse.

Physical-Therapy major, Kristy Tamminga, and Art major, Phil Foust, each spent a semester on Metro.

Chicago Metro is an internship program which allows students from nine colleges to live and work in the city. The program is offered to students of all major career interests. While on Metro, students get a lot of exposure to the fine arts the city offers. They also have the chance to learn of urban issues and to explore values — both their own and those of others who live in the city. Metro integrates faith and learning through the challenges of unfamiliar surroundings.

Intramural and Security Staffs

Margaret puts her all into competition.

Intramural Staff

Trinity's Intramural Staff is responsible for organizing and running all the intramural competitions. This year the intramural sports included Softball, Brun Ball, Hoc-Soc, Volleyball, Basketball, and Ping-Pong. In addition to these, the staff organized several "Wimbledon Nights" throughout the year. The intramural staff provides a great service for the student body, giving everyone the opportunity to participate in competitive sports.

Security Staff

Trinity's Security Staff patrols campus during the late evening and early morning hours. They check the buildings and parking lots, look out for anything unusual, and keep in touch with the police department. They also help out the residents by escorting and letting in latecomers locked out of their dorms. The coordinator of Security Staff this year was Steve Chapman.

RUSS TAFF

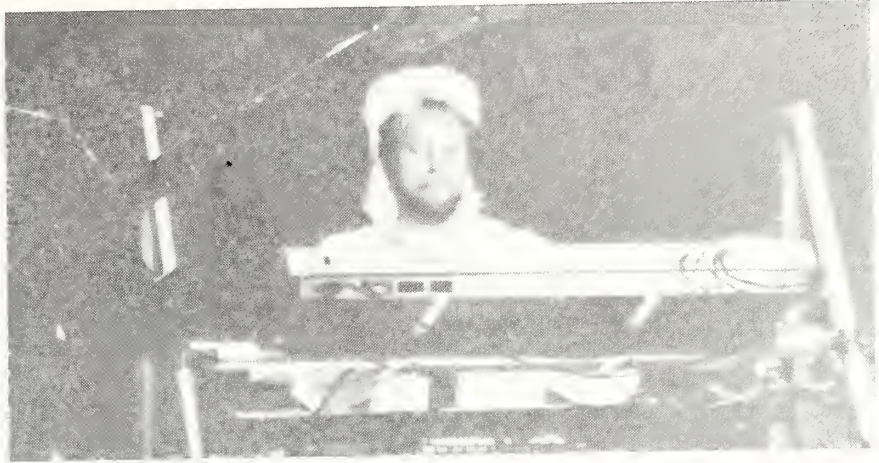

PHIL KEAGGY...

The contract was signed, arrangements were made, and the stage was set. On April 23, Russ Taff and Phil Keaggy appeared in Trinity's own Mitchell Memorial Gymnasium. Opening the concert was WCFL radio announcer Kris Stevens, with a few announcements. Next came Phil Keaggy, one of the world's finest guitarists to inspire the crowd with his rock'n roll and easy listening music. Keaggy was definitely a good stage setter for the headline performer Russ Taff who was to perform next. Taff brought everyone to their feet in praise and excitement with his songs such as "Medals" and "Rock Solid." Taff later gave some Christian words of encouragement to the attentive crowd. The Taff/Keaggy concert was great indeed!

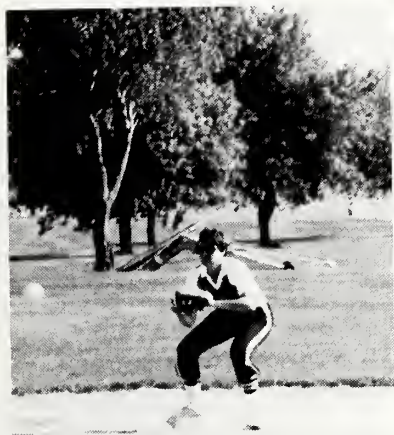

FACULTY vs. WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

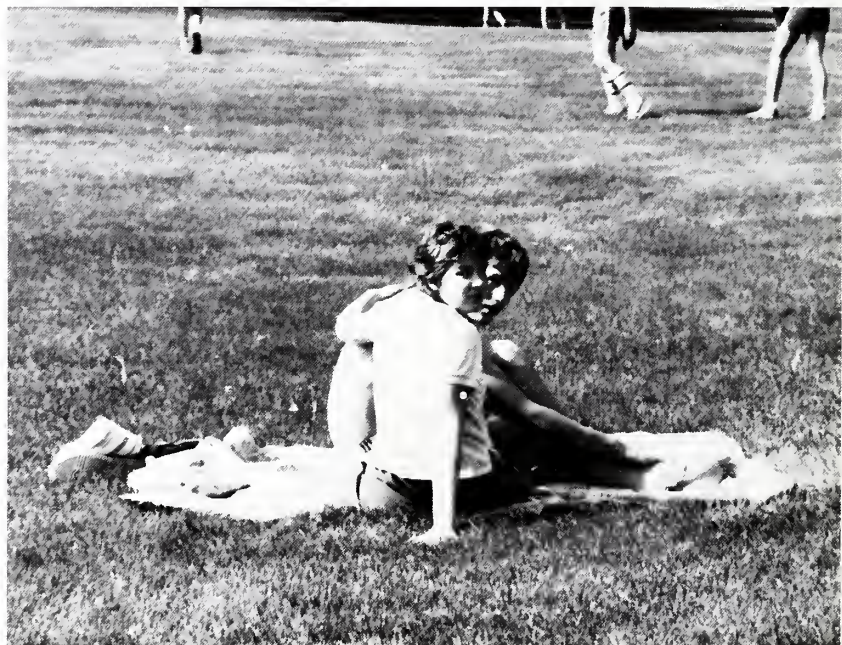

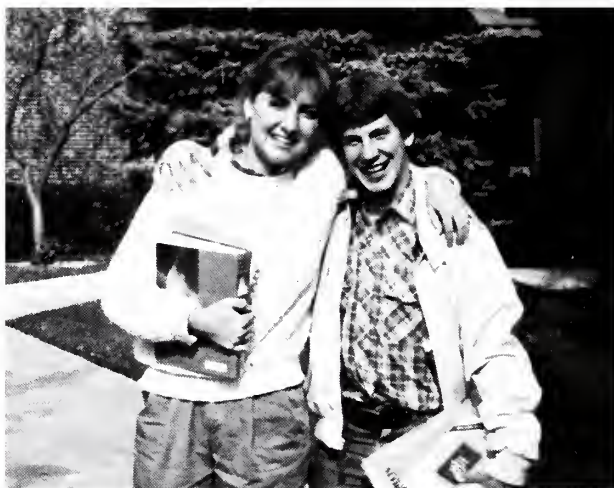

Students often think of teachers as strictly brains, lacking any power in the physical body and dexterity in their hands. The scholars, however, came on strong in bat to bat combat, beating the women's softball team by 4 runs to prove this notion wrong. Dave Larsen and Dar Fransman were the opposing pitchers, each putting out a superb performance during the seven-inning game.
